

coming apparently from Washington Avenue, making toward Jersey City on a road parallel with the tracks of the Erie Railroad.

It is said that the folder factory to-day and it is the custom of the bank to have a larger amount of cash out of the vault to meet this demand for money than on any other day of the week. It is believed here that the robbers had this in mind in timing their raid.

All workmen in the factory and the other plants in the vicinity were excused for the afternoon when they reported in answer to the prolonged blasts of the factory whistle, which were sounded as soon as the engineer learned of the murder. All the responsible directors of work, from foremen to Presidents, were either at the bank or on the bandit chase.

A smear of blood was discovered on the sill of a side window of the bank and there were marks outside, indicating that the bandit who fell approaching the automobile might have been hit by a bullet from a revolver with which Mr. Moore or young Buns tried to defend himself. It was apparent that the quick alarm which followed the shooting had led the robbers to jump from the window to escape running into the hands of men entering the front door.

On the floor of the bank two revolvers were found. One of them had a silencer attachment. The revolver kept under the teller's counter was not in its place and no trace of it was found.

ALLEGED HOOCH STILL IS SEIZED

Brooklyn Police Says It's Biggest They Found Since Prohibition—Drum Contents Called Alcohol.

What the police call "the biggest distillery since Prohibition" was raided this afternoon at No. 183 Bay 19th Street, Brooklyn. Two fifty-gallon stills were seized, copper pipe, fourteen large drums of alleged alcohol and more than 200 cans, some containing alleged alcohol, others water, still others empty.

Patrolman Jake Long of the Bath Beach Station made the discovery yesterday, but kept his information secret until a search warrant had been issued by County Judge May.

Long said his suspicions were aroused by the digging of a ditch for which he saw no logical use. He also noticed, he said, that three men left hurriedly at his approach. He found the building divided in two parts by a new partition. A trap door from the rear part into the cellar revealed the stills.

The whole building is owned by Giuseppe Ajello, importer of oils and other Italian products. He said he had put in the partition and leased the rear part to one Giuseppe Casafalano, who told him he wanted to manufacture vinegar. Ajello said he had never seen the stills. No arrests have been made.

DR. WM. PRIME WILLS HIS ESTATE TO NURSE

She Had Been His Assistant—Widow Is Left Out.

By the will of Dr. William Reid Prime, Miss Myrtle Powell inherits his estate, the value of which is not given. Dr. Prime lived at No. 3750 Broadway with Miss Powell and her mother. He died Dec. 5.

Miss Powell to-day said that Mrs. Prime, his widow, who has a furnished room at No. 130 West 84th Street, and his son, Merrill, who lives at No. 109 West 103rd Street, and two other children had signed waivers of rights under the will. This, she said, was because they felt that she had helped to build up the estate, she being Dr. Prime's assistant, secretary and nurse.

Miss Powell said she met Dr. Prime at a sanatorium in Burlington Vt., and she became a patient, having suffered a nervous breakdown from overwork. Later, she said, she took a course in nursing, and Dr. Prime decided to come to New York, and she came along in her business capacity.

Mrs. Prime declined to comment upon her late husband's will.

2 FLYERS KILLED IN CRASH.

Lieutenants at Florida Field Burned After Tail Split.

ARCADIA, Fla., Dec. 29.—Lieut. Samuel D. Davis, Ark., and William G. Sinclair of Atlanta, Ga., were instantly killed last yesterday when their airplane went into a tailspin about five miles from here.

They were attempting to land and were but a few feet from the ground, spectators said. Both bodies were badly burned. The lieutenants were stationed at Carlstrom Field here.

NEW PROSPERITY ERA NEAR, SAYS GOV. HARDING

Head of Federal Reserve Board Sees Signs of Beginning of Trade Revival.

(Copyright, 1921, by the United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The bells that ring in 1922 will usher in a business revival that will develop in due course into a "new era of prosperity" for the United States.

This prediction was made to-day by W. P. C. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board. "Business has passed through the primary stage, the acute period of reaction," he said. "It is my conviction that basic financial conditions are very much better than they were twelve months ago."

"There are many indications that the beginning of a revival cycle is not far distant. When it does definitely set in it will be followed in due course by a new era of prosperity."

AUTOIST SPEEDS AWAY AFTER HIS CAR KILLS WOMAN

Doctor Who Runs Down Another Takes His Victim to Hospital.

LOUIS DE BOURBON HIT.

Fire Department Car Injured Man Who Claims Alfonso XII, Was Father.

When she crossed 43d Street at First Avenue last night, Mrs. August Hohenstein, thirty-five, of No. 615 Ninth Avenue, was instantly killed by an automobile, the driver of which fled. Her body was found by Patrolman Ebert of the East 51st Street Station.

Mrs. Hohenstein was returning from Bellevue Hospital, where she had visited John Young, a son by a former marriage. The police were unable to find any one who saw the accident.

Confused by the maze of traffic, a woman, about forty-two years old and well dressed, was struck last night at 72d Street, near Broadway. She was taken, with skull, hip and arm fractured, to Roosevelt Hospital.

The woman was run down by an automobile operated by Dr. William McLeod, of No. 562 West 144th Street, who took her to the hospital. Jewelry worn by her consists of an oval watch, on the cover of which is engraved "Tavannes," and which bears the number 2385792. She had also a brooch with a yellow stone and a wedding ring engraved "G. T. C. to A. L. P. April 30, '21."

She wore a blue crepe de Chine dress, fur coat, black hat and black shoes and stockings.

2 CHILDREN KILLED WHILE COASTING

Others Hurt—Automobiles Figure in Two of the Tragedies.

Carlo Frederickson, ten years old, of No. 183 Zabriske Street, and Gustav Smuts, thirteen, of No. 184 Zabriske Street, coasting down Manhattan Avenue on a sled, collided with an automobile driven by Joseph Kuprel of Secaucus at noon to-day. The Frederickson boy was killed. Young Smuts was taken to Jersey City Hospital, suffering from a fractured left hip and internal injuries. Kuprel was arrested, charged with manslaughter.

Michael Tuccillo, fifteen years old, of No. 110 Prospect Street, Jamaica, L. I., died to-day of a fractured skull received last night while coasting in Kings Park, L. I.

Two little girls riding on a sled down 170th Street at Shakespear, the Bronx, to-day ran into an automobile driven by Isaac Stewart of No. 218 University Avenue. Rita Hyman, six years old, of No. 1302 Boscobel Avenue, and Dorothy Hartley, also six, of No. 1365 Boscobel Avenue, were severely injured. They were taken home.

ARMY SUPPLIES WORTH $1,000,000 ARE STOLEN

Three Civilian Employees Held on $50,000 Theft Charge.

Arraignment before United States Commissioner McCabe in Brooklyn to-day of three civilian employees of the Army Base at Bay Ridge brought to light details of an investigation into the loss of the Bay Ridge institution of army supplies valued at $1,000,000 in the last two and a half years. It was reported by investigators of the Army Intelligence Department that other arrests are probable.

The men arraigned on a specific charge of stealing $30,000 worth of army supplies are Edwin Lewis of No. 414 33d Street, Brooklyn, superintendent of laborers; Milton A. Hill of No. 218 East 55th Street, and Samuel Wells of No. 522 East 84th Street, Manhattan, the latter superintendent of salvage material. They were held in $25,000 bail each. All protested their innocence, claiming they are the victims of a frame-up designed to shelter certain persons high in authority at the Bay Ridge base.

It is charged that certain employees of the warehouses used spare space in trucks having regular permits to remove stolen goods which were sold to go-betweens. One item of missing merchandise is a collection of 3,000 razor blades.

TWO HOBOKEN BOYS FOUND "ON BEAR HUNT"

11 and 14-Year-Old Pinnacles in a Tent in Philadelphia Park.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29.—Two boys "bear hunters" were found in Cobs' Creek Park here to-day. A policeman, patrolling the park, sighted an army tent with two air rifles in front. In the tent were Joseph Warack, eleven, and Walter Williams, fourteen, playmates of Hoboken, N. J., asleep on army cots and wrapped in army blankets.

The hunters said they ran away the day after Christmas, visited Washington, and then came here, buying army supplies for their hunting trip. Their parents have been notified.

JERSEY TEACHERS FIGHT HIGH SCHOOL FRATS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 29.—The Teachers' Association of New Jersey adopted a resolution to-day condemning High School fraternities and societies, and directed its legislative committee to seek legislation that would curb their influence upon school life.

OLIVIA ERDMANN WHO IS TO MARRY IN THE SPRING

MISS OLIVIA ERDMANN

Engagement of Doctor's Daughter to John L. Kuser, Jr., Announced by Her Parents.

Miss Olivia S. Erdmann, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John P. Erdmann of No. 60 West 52d Street, is to wed John L. Kuser of Hordentown, N. J., early in the spring, according to an announcement to-day by Dr. and Mrs. Erdmann.

Miss Erdmann was graduated from the Miss Spencer School for Girls, at No. 30 West 56th Street, and was prominent in the activities of the finishing school while a student. She is a member of the Junior League and was active in war work with the American Red Cross Motor Corps.

"I first met Mr. Kuser when my brother, Sturtevant, brought him to our home during a college vacation," said Miss Erdmann to-day. "Both boys were graduated from Princeton College in 1920. My fiancé is twenty-four years old and we expect to be married in the spring. The exact place for the wedding has not been decided, but it will either be at our home on West 52d Street, or at the summer place, the Gardens, East Hampton, L. I. I ought not to tell at this time, but the maid of honor will be Miss Marie Louise Baldwin of San Francisco."

She wore a blue crepe de Chine dress, fur coat, black hat and black shoes and stockings.

TAXI FARE DISPUTE WON BY MIDGETS, TEN RIDING AS FIVE

(Continued From First Page.)

them, he basing his claim that double fare was legal for more than five passengers, or whether he should get $1.50, which the midgets offered and for which one of them engaged in fistfists with the chauffeur.

The ten midgets, all men, members of the Singer troupe which is playing at the Hamilton Theatre, 146th Street and Broadway, set out from their home, No. 10 West 70th Street, in the taxicab driven by Morris Price of No. 368 Howard Avenue, Brooklyn. As they took up little room, all ten clambered into the vehicle. When they reached the theatre, the taximeter read $1.50, but Price, counting his fares as they streamed out, demanded the $3.

They refused to pay and one of the little men, the one who does "strong man" stuff on the stage, unlimbered a wicked sawing and hit Price as high up as he could, in the knee. He was doing a one-two one-two on the knee when Price brushed him off and offered to arbitrate at the police station.

Magistrate Corrigan wanted to know whether a kindergarten had been brought in when the midgets appeared before him.

"They're all older than I am," Price declared.

The court sought to figure out the weights and cubic measurements of the midgets to solve the problem. The midgets exclaimed there was no over-crowding; there was plenty of room for all.

Magistrate Corrigan ordered Price to accept the $1.50, and the midgets paid cheerfully.

After incidentally learning what ancestors really did come over on the Mayflower, Hirschfeld will visit Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

"If necessary," said Hirschfeld, "I'll invite some of these alleged historians to appear before me and state their grounds for some of the distorted versions of American history."

"After you have gathered all your facts, will you write a history—Hirschfeld's History of the United States?" the Commissioner was asked.

"If I did," he replied, "I'd guarantee that it would be 101 per cent. American instead of some of our histories, which are 90 per cent. American and 10 per cent. British."

"We have in this country a certain class of snobs who are ashamed of wearing American clothes, who talk with a silly London accent and who boast of the Mayflower and all that sort of thing. I have nothing against the Mayflower, but I'll bet a red apple against a corky that a much finer class of people and a damned sight more of them—people who have added to this country's greatness—have landed at the Battery."

110 KILLED IN YEAR IN BELFAST SHIPING

Eleven Police Among Dead, and Wounded Total 540.

BELFAST, Dec. 29.—The year of guerrilla warfare in Belfast has taken a toll of 110 lives, it was announced to-day. Of these eleven were police. Five hundred and forty were wounded.

GOV. SMALL MUST STAND TRIAL FOR ALLEGED CRIME

Illinois Court Upholds $500,000 Embezzlement Charge, Quashing Others.

GOV. SMALL MUST STAND TRIAL FOR ALLEGED CRIME

Illinois Court Upholds $500,000 Embezzlement Charge, Quashing Others.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Dec. 29 (Associated Press).—Judge Claire C. Edwards of the Circuit Court of Lake County, to-day upheld an indictment charging Gov. Len Small with embezzlement of $500,000 of State funds and nine of the thirteen counts of an indictment charging the Governor, Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling and Vernon Curtis, a banker of Grant Park, Ill., with conspiracy and operating a confidence game involving $2,000,000 in State money. The court ordered the Governor to trial on Jan. 9 on the $500,000 embezzlement charge.

Judge Edwards sustained the attorneys for the Governor and Mr. Curtis in part by quashing an indictment charging them, together with Mr. Sterling, with embezzlement of $700,000, and quashed three counts charging conspiracy and the one charging confidence game in the other joint indictment. As a result Mr. Curtis will face trial only on the nine remaining counts of the conspiracy charge.

Judge Edwards' action in quashing the joint embezzlement indictment against the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Mr. Curtis will automatically kill that charge against Mr. Sterling.

The decision was marked by a scathing arraignment of Charles W. Byers, County Clerk of Sangamon County, who admitted on the stand that the records of his office containing the minutes of the County Board, which selected the Grand Jurors who subsequently indicted the Governor and his fellow defendants, had been altered. "He was a willing witness," Judge Edwards said, "willing to do whatever was necessary to be done to sustain these indictments."

The charges against the Governor and Lieutenant Governor and Mr. Curtis centered around alleged illegal practices during the term of Gov. Small as State Treasurer, 1917-1919; and the term of Lieut.-Gov. Sterling as State Treasurer, 1919-1921. The alleged illegal operations consisted of the deposit in the Grant Park Bank of sums of State money aggregating $10,000,000, which were then loaned to Swift & Co. and Armour & Co., Chicago packers, on notes paying 7 to 8 per cent. interest. Not more than 2 per cent. of this interest was paid to the State, the Grand Jury claimed, and the defendants are charged with retaining the remainder.

The decision was marked by a scathing arraignment of Charles W. Byers, County Clerk of Sangamon County, who admitted on the stand that the records of his office containing the minutes of the County Board, which selected the Grand Jurors who subsequently indicted the Governor and his fellow defendants, had been altered. "He was a willing witness," Judge Edwards said, "willing to do whatever was necessary to be done to sustain these indictments."

The charges against the Governor and Lieutenant Governor and Mr. Curtis centered around alleged illegal practices during the term of Gov. Small as State Treasurer, 1917-1919; and the term of Lieut.-Gov. Sterling as State Treasurer, 1919-1921. The alleged illegal operations consisted of the deposit in the Grant Park Bank of sums of State money aggregating $10,000,000, which were then loaned to Swift & Co. and Armour & Co., Chicago packers, on notes paying 7 to 8 per cent. interest. Not more than 2 per cent. of this interest was paid to the State, the Grand Jury claimed, and the defendants are charged with retaining the remainder.

U. S. RESENTMENT GROWS OVER FRENCH OBSTRUCTIVE TACTICS

(Continued From First Page.)

European economic reconstruction is concerned, hinges upon a friendly attitude on the part of the Harding-Hughes Administration toward Europe. The tendency toward isolation had been slowly overcome by various moves made by the Harding Administration, particularly in being willing to attend meetings of the Supreme Council and in the calling of the Armament Conference itself. But the impression created by French tactics here is to cool the ardor of the Administration toward more conferences with European powers, particularly France.

Another thing: The Supreme Council is meeting at Cannes to discuss the economic reconstruction of Europe and there are plans for the bringing of both Germany and Russia into the conference. The United States Government has been asked to attend. The drift here has been toward participation, but the extent of America's interest in these coming conferences is a matter for the American Executive to determine. If the French plan to spend their money for the building of submarines, aircraft and cruisers and intend to maintain a large standing army, they can hardly hope for the support of the American representative at the Supreme Council meetings or in the larger conferences in which Russia and Germany are to participate.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

In a nutshell, the attitude of the French at the Washington conference must be interpreted in the light of the French faith in world diplomacy. The effect of her obstructive tactics will long be felt in the Washington Administration in the years immediately ahead of us. France has given the impression of erratic tactics and discord which so nearly shattered the difficulties President Wilson had at Paris that there is good ground for believing that the Washington Administration may tend to draw further and further away from European questions of an economic as well as political character until the Europeans themselves, particularly by France, give evidence of a better spirit toward the maintenance of peace on the Continent.

GREAT INCREASE IN DRUNKENNESS SHOWN IN CHICAGO

Arrestments in Year Jump From 32,305 in 1920 to 51,300 in 1921.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The annual report of the Municipal Courts of Chicago submitted to-day by Clerk James A. Kearns showed drunkenness increased here the past year, 51,300 persons being arraigned for intoxication in 1921, as against 32,305 in 1920.

The report followed the action by the city council yesterday in voting $2 to $4 for a resolution demanding that Congress and the State Legislature authorize the manufacture, sale and distribution of "wholesome beers and light wines."

Alderman Bathhouse John Coughlin, dean of the council, had the resolution amended to approve the use of the revenue derived from wines and beer to pay a soldiers' bonus.

Alderman A. J. Cermak, old-time leader of the "wet," introduced the resolution, which declared, among other things, that the prohibition act had failed to prohibit and failed to meet with the approval of the general public throughout the country.

"You could put every sheriff, policeman, and the State militia on the job and you could not stop the sale of liquor in Chicago," he declared.

"The people will not stand the spending of $11,000,000 a year to pay Chicago policemen to go out and play the spoiler, the slugger, and the detective for the government."

"Mr. Mayor, you may expect a lot of trouble from me and my friends from now on if you continue to use the money of Chicago taxpayers to send policemen smelling for beer among reputable citizens."

GHANDI'S POLICY INDORSED IN INDIA

His Plan For a Revolution Without Violence Is Supported By National Congress.

AHMEDABAD, British India, Dec. 29 (Associated Press).—At a full session of the Indian National Congress to-day the resolution proposed by Mahatma Gandhi declaring for continuation of the policy of non-violence in the effort to obtain independence from the British Empire was adopted with only a dozen dissenting votes.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by an overwhelming majority by the special committee of the congress.

The resolution declares Gandhi the sole executive authority with full powers over the congress organization. It was adopted after an amendment offered by extremists proposing the use of "possible and proper means" instead of "legitimate and peaceful means" had been defeated by